

Emergency Broadcast System, a run on for staff

Everyone walks on stage. The narrator goes toward the audience, the rest of the group stands in an organized fashion behind the Narrator.

Narrator: May I have your attention please. This is a test of the Emergency Broadcast System. Remember this is only a test.

Group: Steady Tone (like a siren)

Narrator: Had this been an actual emergency it would have looked something like this.

Group: (Throw arms up in the air and run around the stage area yelling & screaming.)