

Musical Genius

The announcer makes a flowery introduction about how fortunate the audience is to have the opportunity to hear a splendid vocal group about to perform. After the introduction, the group marches onto stage and lines up across the front. The announcer states that their first number will be that appealing ballad "The Little Lost Sheep". Following a short musical introduction, singers open their mouths and produce a long, loud "Baa-a-a" and then exit the stage.