

Water, Water! Skit

Cast: Any number of thirsty persons dramatically crawling through a hot, dry, sandy desert (Every person should be doing something a little different than others.)

Thirsty person: (Gasping) “Water! I need water!.” After crawling a little ways onto the stage s/he collapses and pretends to die.

2nd thirsty person: “My throat is so dry!” This person crawls further onto the stage in the direction of a cup of water and then collapses.

3rd thirsty person: “Help, Help! I’m so thirsty!” This person crawls further and then collapses.

Keep continuing in this manner until all but one of the people have crawled onto the stage, clearly said something and died.

The last thirsty person: “Water, Water, Water . . . “ This person crawls all the way to the cup of water . . . barely, and s/he takes out his comb and combs his/her hair, turns and gives a big cheesy smile to the audience.