

Meat for Sale

Someone should introduce the skit by clearly saying that a grizzly bear walks into a butcher shop.

(Over-emphasize all actions!)

Bear: Grrr, I need some meat. What's for sale today?

Butcher: Well, here's some skunk that got run over on the road. Just 10 cents a pound.

Bear: That's disgusting! I need something better.

Butcher: How about some rabbit? 50 cents a pound.

Bear: No, rabbit gives me gas.

Butcher: I've got venison steaks. $1.00 a pound.

Bear: Nope, had that yesterday.

Butcher: There's bear tongue for $2.00 a pound, but you're probably not interested.

Bear: GRRRRRRR!

Butcher: Hey, here's pheasant breast for just $5.00 a pound.

Bear: That might do. Is that all you have?

Butcher: Hmmm, let's see. I've got Campers, but I'm afraid they're $70.00 a pound.

Bear: $70.00!!!! Why so much?

Butcher: Do you know how much work it is to CLEAN one so it doesn't smell?
